APT100

APT100 - ONE TANK FOR ALL PURPOSES

Fresh-, grey-, black water or diesel: this tank can handle it

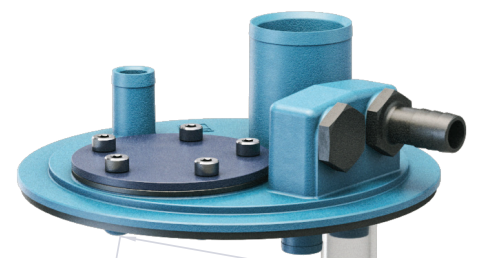

The first in a new series of tanks to be introduced by VETUS: meet the APT100. Made from high-grade polyethylene, this large capacity tank handles almost any liquid you would like to store on your boat. The APT100 is completely new and designed from scratch. It features reinforcement ribs and has 8 mm thick walls to prevent deformation under load. Tested with 0,3 bar (4 p.s.i.) pressure, the APT100 showed significantly less deformation compared with its main competitors. The tank is supplied as standard with a large diameter inspection port to which different ILT connection kits can be installed. On the bottom is a 38 mm connector that can be drilled out for linking or draining purposes. The robust appearance and the all-new design make this the tank to have.

Fresh and clean design – even if it contains black water

Due to the large inspection port (140mm) the tank meets ISO21487 when it comes to fuel directives. Depending on the purpose you have for this tank, an appropriate ILT connection set is available from VETUS. The tank is easy to install and has enough capacity for longer boat trips. Dimensions are 1010 mm x 390 mm x 315 mm, with a wall thickness of 8 mm. The APT100 is the first model of the series and will be available for sale second quarter of 2018.
